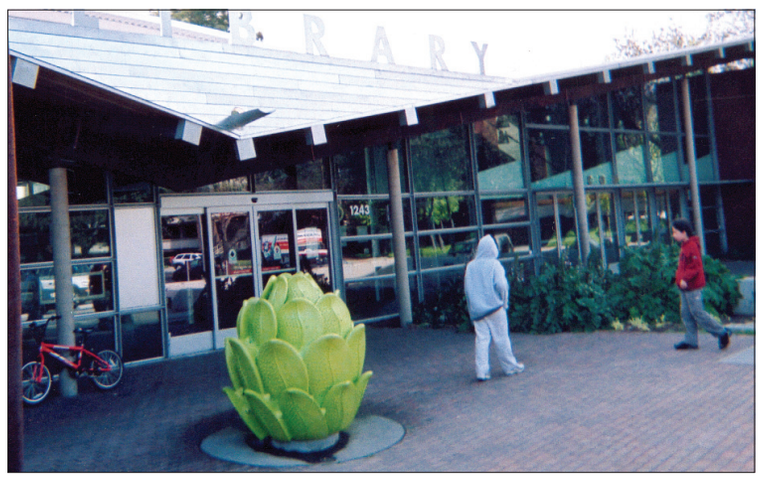
San Jose Branch Libraries might stay open on Sundays



San Jose branch libraries may stay open on Sundays.

By Pete Campbell

The San Jose city government is considering a plan to keep the city's public libraries open on Sundays, but not everyone in the city thinks that it's a good idea. The city's own library commission has questioned the wisdom of adding a day of service in these budget-challenged times.

The proposal to keep the libraries open on Sundays was advanced by the Gonzales administration after a six-month pilot program was conducted where four San Jose branch libraries were kept open on Sunday afternoons. The four libraries were busy enough during that time for city officials to conclude that there was enough of a demand to keep them operating on Sundays.

The problem is the city doesn't have the resources to pay for these additional Sunday hours of operation. At this point in the budget-making process, operating hours must be cut from other days to keep the libraries open on Sundays. Is this worth doing?

In a letter sent to the mayor and the members of the San Jose city council, David Cohen, Chair of the San Jose library commission pointed out that libraries have, "become a key place for children to go after school." "...It is crucial that no consideration be given to adding Sunday hours at a time when weekday openings will be at a premium."

Bagdad sufre nuevo atentado

Bagdad (EFE) — El grupo del presunto líder de Al-Qaeda en Irak, Abu Musab al-Zarqaui, asumió la autoría de los dos atentados suicidas perpetrados el 14 de abril en Bagdad, que costaron la vida a quince personas y que son los más sangrientos en la capital iraquí desde las elecciones del pasado 30 de enero.

En un comunicado colgado en una página islamista de Internet pocas horas después de la masacre, el grupo afirma que "dos leones miembros de una brigada de mártires" hicieron detonar dos coches bomba en una concurrida avenida cercana al Ministerio iraquí de Interior.

Uno de los kamikazes hizo explotar la carga junto a "un puesto de policía apóstata", mientras que otro atentó contra un convoy militar iraquí integrado por nueve vehículos, explicó el texto, firmado por la "Organización de Al-Qaeda para la Yihad (Guerra Santa) en Mesopota-

Fuerte oposición contra el "Real ID Act" en San José

Texto y foto por Nahuí Ollín

Varias organizaciones pro inmigrantes se reunieron en San José para manifestar su desacuerdo con la medida "Real ID Act", que ha pasado ya la Cámara Baja de Representantes del país y se encuentra en el Senado para ser debatida.

En términos generales, el "Real ID Act" pretende:

Restricciones a la petición de asilo (sección 101).

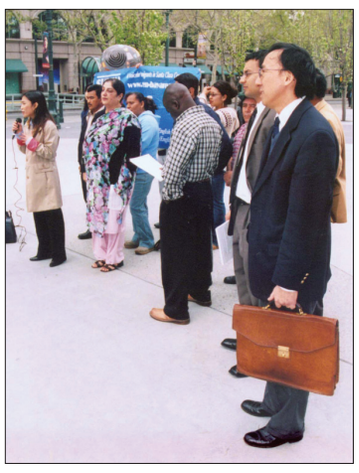
La suspención de las leyes federales en el rubro de crear barreras adicionales en las fronteras del país (sección 102).

La expansión de la inadmisibilidad y la remosión de provisiones (secciones 103 y 104).

Restricción a los inmigrantes del acceso a las Cortes Federales (sección 105).

Ensanchamiento de los poderes de los fiadores (bail bondsmen) y cazadores de premios o recompensas (secciones 106, 107 y 108).

Restricciones a los inmigrantes para que puedan obtener licencias de manejar y la creación de distintos tipos de licencias para diferentes clases de norteamericanos (sección 202).



Grupos comunitarios pro inmigrantes se reunieron para protestar contra el "Real ID Act", en San José.

Una de las organizaciones que se manifestó en contra de esta medida es Servicios Comunitarios para Refugiados Africanos. "Muchos de nosotros venimos a este país ya sea por miedo o por ser perseguidos", comenta Musa Kamara. Refugiado somalí y miembro del grupo "creemos que los Estados Unidos es uno de los lugares más seguros para vivir, pero en caso de que esta medida pase, puede incluso convertirse en deportación para muchos de nosotros y eso no es bueno para nadie".

Según el Sr. Kamara, hay poco más o menos cuatro mil personas procedentes de Somalia (en el este de África) en la comunidad y alrededor de diez mil en todo el país.

"Estamos enviando mensajes diferentes a nuestras familias al decirles, nosotros, que este país es bueno para vivir, mientras que el gobierno les está diciendo que no vengan porque no podrán solicitar asilo en ninguna forma y esto creará gran confusión no nada más en mi país sino en toda África", concluyó.

"Nosotros creemos que

Estudian reanudación de programa de repatriación voluntaria

Tucson, Arizona (EFE) — Los gobiernos de EE.UU. y México analizan la reanudación del programa de repatriación voluntaria de inmigrantes mexicanos a través de vuelos comerciales desde Tucson.

El Comisionado de Aduanas y Protección Fronteriza (CBP), Robert C. Bonner, informó que el gobierno de EE.UU. se encuentra en conversaciones con el gobierno mexicano para buscar la mejor manera de implementar nuevamente el programa de repatriación voluntaria.

Mientras tanto, los consulados de México se encuentran a la expectativa de las negociaciones que llevan a cabo ambos gobiernos, pero manifestaron estar dispuestos a atender a sus connacionales como en el pasado.

El año pasado, cerca de 14,000 inmigrantes indocumentados mexicanos fueron repatriados en vuelos comerciales desde el Aeropuerto Internacional de Tucson hacia ciudades en el interior de la

Ingresos influyen en bajo rendimiento de hispanos

Sacramento (EFE) — Los bajos ingresos económicos y la pobre calidad de la educación son factores que inciden en que más de un millón de estudiantes hispanos de California aprendan el idioma inglés menos rápido de los esperado, según destaca un estudio.

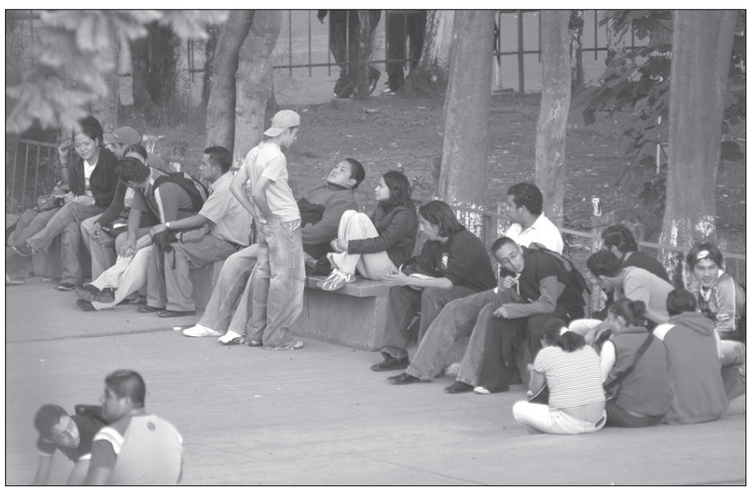
El informe "Los alumnos que están aprendiendo inglés en las escuelas de California", señaló que el retraso de 1.4 millones de hispanos significa que uno de cada cuatro estudiantes en este estado, desde preescolar hasta décimo segundo grado, no está aprendiendo el idioma inglés satisfactoriamente.

"Esto es muy importante, porque para desarrollarse socialmente en Estados Unidos es requisito dominar el inglés", indicó Christopher Jepsen, codirector del estudio que presentó el informe en el Instituto de Políticas Públicas de California (PPIC), un centro independiente de investigación social sin fines de lucro.

El informe rompe el mito de que los niños que menos aprenden el inglés son inmigrantes, pues el 85 por ciento de los señalados nació en EE.UU., principalmente en California, cuyos padres que sí son inmigrantes, en su mayoría de México y Centroamérica.

La coautora del informe, Shelley de Alth, destacó la importancia de los ingresos familiares y la educación de los padres como elementos determinantes en el aprendizaje de los estudiantes para dominar el inglés.

Indicó que otro grupo de estudiantes de California de minoría étnica cuya lengua materna en casa es el mandarín, provienen de familias con ingresos promedio de 92,000 dólares anuales y sus padres han estudiado 16 años en promedio, y como resultado son el grupo de alumnos que mejor domina el inglés.



La falta de recursos económicos y la pobre calidad de la educación son influyentes en más de un millón de estudiantes hispanos de California en aprender el idioma inglés, según un estudio. Foto EFE

Los hispanos, por su parte, provienen de familias con ingresos promedio de 41,000 dólares anuales y sus padres en su mayoría han estudiado 10 años, por lo que se convierten en uno de los grupos con menor dominio del idioma inglés actualmente en California.

Sin embargo, el dominio que están alcanzando los estudiantes hispanos es determinante para ellos mismos y el estado, pues de todos los alumnos de minorías que en casa hablan idiomas que no son el inglés, los hispanos representan el 85 por ciento del total, de acuerdo con el informe.

Tanto Jepsen como de Alth aseguran que los distritos escolares pueden jugar un papel importante al emitir opiniones sobre cuáles estudiantes están aprendiendo el idioma inglés y en qué condiciones.

Las diferencias las encontraron en los resultados de la Prueba de Desarrollo del Lenguaje en Inglés de California, el examen que sirve de parámetro a las autoridades educativas para revisar los avances tanto de los estudiantes que hablan otros idiomas en sus hogares y aprenden inglés como de aquellos para los que es la lengua materna y la perfeccionan.

Uno de los descubrimientos encontrados durante la investigación para el PPIC fue que las escuelas que tienen más estudiantes aprendiendo inglés son más homogéneas en esa clasificación y los alumnos sostienen más relaciones personales sin importar las diferencias en lenguaje.≤≥

Opositores celebran retiro de propuesta de reforma a pensiones

Sacramento (EFE) — Los detractores del Gobernador Arnold Schwarzenegger celebraron la decisión del mandatario regional de retirar la propuesta de reforma al sistema de pensiones del estado, bajo el argumento de introducirle algunas reformas.

Legisladores demócratas, sindicatos y funcionarios como el Vicegobernador Cruz Bustamante festejaron la decisión de Schwarzenegger de retirar, de la lista de propuestas que planea llevar a una elección especial este año, la reforma de pensiones por supuestas "malinterpretaciones".

"Una menos y faltan tres por caer", tituló la Unión Internacional de Empleados de Servicios (SEIU) de California un comunicado en el que aplaudió el anuncio del gobernador.

"Cae una iniciativa de intereses especiales y nos faltan tres. En tanto celebramos, continuamos en la pelea por los derechos de los empleos públicos de calidad y la educación pública", dijo el presidente de la SEIU, Jim Hard, sobre las otras propuestas como la redistritación electoral, los beneficios a maestros y el establecimiento de límites al presupuesto.

"Creo que es mejor retirarla para mejorarla", indicó Schwarzenegger, al tiempo que advirtió que si la legislatura no debate la reforma el próximo año, la llevará a los electores como hizo en su primer año de gobierno con otras iniciativas de carácter económico que fueron aprobadas en 2004.

El gobernador tenía la esperanza de encontrar apoyo a su reforma que buscaba cambiar el sistema actual por uno de ahorros, pero eliminando beneficios para los familiares sobrevivientes de los empleados.≤≥

Cambios en ley de educación desata reacciones mixtas

Por Mary González Nieves

Washington (EFE) — Los recientes cambios a la ley de educación que permiten a algunos estados mayor flexibilidad para evitar sanciones federales, es un paso en la dirección correcta pero no suficiente, afirman educadores y sindicatos de maestros.

Las nuevas directrices, acompañadas de 14 millones de dólares de apoyo inmediato, permitirán triplicar el número de estudiantes con discapacidades exentos de pasar los exámenes de las normas de aprendizaje, conocidos como "SOL" ("Standards of Learning").

Originalmente los estados sólo podían eximir de los exámenes "SOL", que impone la ley "Que Ningún Niño Quede Atrás", al uno por ciento de sus estudiantes clasificados bajo esa categoría.

De hecho, los resultados de estos exámenes constituyen la médula de la ley, pues sirven para medir el nivel del progreso anual de estudiantes al igual que determinan el éxito o fracaso de una institución.

Bajo la ley de educación, los distritos escolares logran cumplir con la meta de 'progreso anual adecuado' sólo si los estudiantes en los cuatro subgrupos (escasos recursos económicos, aprendiendo inglés, minorías, educación especial) muestran mejoras continuas en los resultados de exámenes estandarizados.

Las escuelas cuyos estudiantes particularmente las minorías no muestran progreso están sujetas a penalidades e, incluso, a la eliminación de fondos federales.

Aunque los cambios permitirán a algunos estados ofrecer pruebas alternas a un tres por ciento de sus estudiantes con discapacidades, todavía los estados están obligados a ofrecer exámenes anuales, de 3 a 8 grados, en inglés, matemáticas y ciencias, reiteró la Secretaria de Educación, Margaret Spellings.

Entretanto, la Federación Estadounidense de Maestros (AFT, en inglés) indicó que la decisión de permitir a los estados mayor flexibilidad "es un pequeño paso hacia el frente".≤≥

U.S. Treasurer urges young Hispanics to stay in school

U.S. Treasurer Ana Cabral, a Mexican-American. Photo EFE

By Rosendo Majano

Washington (EFE) — U.S. Treasurer Ana Cabral, a Mexican-American, says young Hispanics in the United States must stay in school and persevere to avail themselves of opportunities the nation provides.

Cabral, 45, was born in California, but her parents are from Mexico and came to this country in search of a better life.

She received her Master's Degree in Public Administration at Harvard University's Kennedy School.

The signature of this women, who has a lengthy U.S. public service career, has appeared on all the paper money issued by the United States since shortly after she took over as the nation's 42nd treasurer early this year.

Almost 100 Hispanic leaders who wanted to honor her rise to the post were at Cabral's swearing-in ceremony, as was Treasury Secretary John Snow.

The new treasurer and her husband Victor, also Mexican-American, are the parents of three daughters and one son.

In an interview with EFE, she said her main responsibilities include "working with President (George W.) Bush, and giving him support on the reform of Social Security and the tax system."

Cabral believes that up to now she's had "a good deal of success" in helping the public understand that Social Security in its present form is a "big problem."

Amid heavy opposition, the White House says it intends to reform Social Security to prevent the system from being left without funds to provide to future generations of retirees.

Among her other obligations, Cabral also provides support for Treasury Secretary Snow, "in particular, dedicating my energies to financial education, and seeing how that can help our people (i.e. Hispanics) and all the citizens of this country," she said.

She also has the responsibility to work with other Western Hemisphere countries - specifically in Latin America - on the common goal of "helping their people with financial education," she added.

Yet another of her functions is to push the initiatives of the Treasury Department to reduce costs to people living in the United States to send remittances to relatives in Mexico and other Latin American countries.

She called on Hispanic parents to "prepare young people to get ahead in their studies," and to show them the importance of thinking of their community as a family in which people help each other out.

"It's very important that young people keep going with their studies, that they don't drop out of high school but go on to college and get their Master's or Ph.D. in their areas of interest," she said.

She also expressed her satisfaction over "the changes in and successes on the part of the Hispanic community" during the last few decades, something she says gives her faith in Latinos' future in the country.≤≥

México aún llora al Papa

Por Celina Rodríguez

El Pueblo de México ha demostrado una vez más, su grandísimo amor hacia Juan Pablo II.

Ese profundo sentimiento que le ha distinguido siempre de otras naciones en manifestaciones tan sinceras y sentidas como su canción especial "Amigo". La gente siempre se la cantó en la calle, en ceremonias de bienvenida o de despedida, en "las mañanitas" que le cantaban al Pontífice en sus visitas a México.

Esta canción llegó a convertirse en una especie de himno exclusivo para el Pontífice. Representó una muestra más, muy diferente y particular del amor de México hacia el "Papa Viajero".

En sus cinco visitas a México, el "Papa Amigo" siempre fue recibido con muestras de gran cariño y admiración.

Estas muestras me tocó vivirlas muy de cerca en tres de sus viajes a México: en enero de 1979 cuando visitó mi país por primera vez; en enero de 1999 cuando muchos pensamos que sería ésta la última vez que pisaría suelo mexicano y por último en julio del 2002, sin duda la visita más importante de todas por la Canonización del Indio Juan Diego.

Y es que el Santo Padre comparte una de las creencias religiosas y culturales más importantes del país: el culto a la Virgen de Guadalupe. Esta devoción culminó con el máximo regalo del Pontífice a sus hijos mexicanos que fue la Canonización del Indio Juan Diego. De las cinco visitas de Juan Pablo II a México, ésta sin duda, fue la más importante y la de mayor trascendencia.

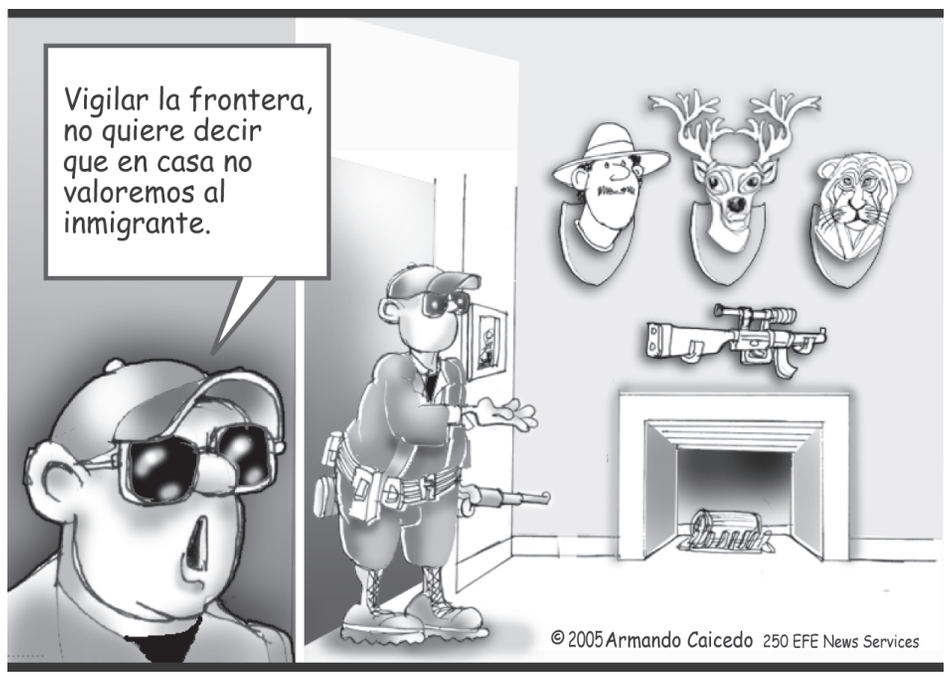
Recuerdo como la gente esperaba por largas horas a lo largo de las calles que integraban el recorrido. Todo inconveniente se justificaba mágicamente cuando pasaba frente a ellos "El Papa Móvil". Todo se justificaba para verlo con sus propios ojos, aunque fuera sólo por unos segundos.

La plática con la señora o el señor, el joven y el adulto se daba con un matíz menos marcado de clases sociales. La espectativa era siempre tan fuerte que se sentía un ambiente de hermandad, en el que como pocas veces, todos hablaban con todos.

Mientras que aquí en Estados Unidos, como sucede con algunos días de culto religioso como la Semana Santa, la celebración de un Santo y en muchos lugares sobre todo anglosajones, hasta la Fiesta de la Virgen de Guadalupe no se conoce o no se vive, la vida y muerte de Juan Pablo II ha cerrado su capítulo. Ahora se abre uno nuevo: ¿Quién será su sucesor?, inclusive lo vivimos aún meses antes de su muerte.

Para México, sí están vigentes los "nueve días de luto" que declaró El Vaticano para el mundo católico.

México aún le llora a Juan Pablo II la muerte de su Papa Mexicano, la muerte de su Papa Amigo.≤≥



A commitment, 365 days a year

By Javier Sierra

On April 22, Earth Day, most of us celebrate the blessings of a healthy planet and our commitment to defend it against abuses.

However, in the little border town of Anapra, New Mexico, there is little to celebrate and a lot to fight for, day in and day out.

For more than 100 years, a nearby smelter located across the Rio Grande, in El Paso, Texas, spewed hundreds of thousands of tons of some of the most toxic metals known to exist.

Since Anapra "one of the country's poorest communities" lies on low terrain, residues of lead, zinc, arsenic and cadmium, carried by the wind, accumulated there, rendering the soil unfit to grow anything.

This nightmare was somewhat alleviated in 1999 when the ASARCO Smelter shut down its operations. But the relief was to be brief because the owners of the facility, with the price of copper now picking up in international markets, have decided to reopen it. And Anaprans, very rightly so, are fuming.

Anapra has New Mexico's highest lead contamination levels. Most of its children have learning disabilities, have trouble concentrating, are irritable and show excessive aggressiveness, all typical symptoms of lead poisoning.

For instance, the five children of Linda Sandoval's "a member of Get the Lead Out, a community group opposing the reopening of the plant all have learning disabilities".

"It's a mockery that they are trying to open the smelter again," says Linda. "I thought stuff like this took place only in places like Mexico. But corruption is also here."

Lilly Ureño, a volunteer in the La Casita community center, shares her neighbors' fears.

"At La Casita I work with children, and many have asthma and seizures," says Lilly, whose son also has learning problems. "We Anapra mothers are afraid."

ASARCO, however, denies that its smelter has anything to do with the pollution, and historically has counted on the sympathy of local and state officials who consider the company a community benefactor, thereby eluding their cleanup responsibilities.

But a 1971 El Paso investigation found that in one year the smelter spewed 1,012 tons of lead, 508 tons of zinc, 11 tons of cadmium and one ton of arsenic. Another study showed that almost 60% of the children living around the plant had dangerous lead levels in their blood. In fact, ASARCO has pollution problems in 40 facilities throughout the country.

This year, New Mexico's public health officials decided to investigate and, on March 11, visited Anapra. But the residents were hugely disappointment when the investigators refused to conduct blood test among Anapra's children.

"There is no substantial evidence that the children in Anapra have lead in their blood," the investigators told the outraged community.

"This is just one more example of how health departments in Texas and New Mexico have covered ASARCO's toxic legacy for 30 years," said, Yvette Ramirez Ammerman, Get the Lead Out coalition spokesperson. "Children not only play outside in the dirt, they also pick up dust from inside the home as they crawl around. Ignoring the children is frankly ridiculous, if not fraudulent."

Obviously, more evidence that children living near the smelter are contaminated would sink, like lead, ASARCO's chances of getting their permit renewed.

Not only are Anapra's 1,500 residents involved in keeping the smelter closed. Several civic groups from El Paso and neighboring Ciudad Juarez are active participants in public hearings that have been taking place for months.

This opposition has turned into a grassroots movement whose most emotional action took place a few month ago during a march 2003 against the reopening of the facility, in which hundreds of people participated. Many of them are residents of the more than 600 properties the federal government has declared contaminated by ASARCO.

The fight will be long, and the hearings will keep going for months, but Anaprans know their strength is their unity.

"This is my home," Lilly says. "I don't want to leave. Here we all take care of each other and we all are going to fight together."

In Anapra, every day is Earth Day.

"News Bulletin: bombing is destructive"

To: La Oferta

In "Informe: gobierno de EE.UU. estuvo "totalmente equivocado" (Page 1, April 1), a presidential commission recommends, essentially, that the U.S improve in the area of espionage.

It falls to us common people to make more important findings such as:

1) Furtive and strongarm operations produce outcomes which are stupider and more destructive than do open discussions.

2) Bombing is usually a bad idea, no matter who does it. U.S. dropping bombs on Iraq has been a really bad idea.

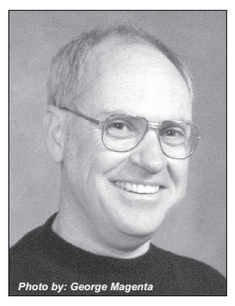
The Rise of Spanish?



By Domenico Maceri

The three major U.S. networks have been facing stiff competition for viewers from cable television and also from the Internet. One network that seems to be thriving without any serious competition is Spanish language Univision.

Although it's ranked fifth among all the U.S. TV networks regardless of language, in the February Sweep of 2005 it ranked fourth among all American adults. And with adults aged 18-24 years Univision ranked first on four nights in February.

The growth of Univision is of course a reflection of the increasing importance of the Spanish language. Spanish mirrors the population. About thirty million people in the U.S. speak Spanish, which would make it the fifth largest Spanish-speaking country in the world after Mexico, Spain, Colombia, and Argentina.

The rise of the Spanish-speaking population causes problems to some Americans. Several language groups have been established in the last few decades ostensibly intending to protect the English language but in fact trying to reduce and eliminate immigration whether legal or illegal.

One of the major concerns of these groups is that the expansion of Spanish in the U.S. will eventually create a bilingual country and that will bring about Canada's bilingual "problems." These groups believe that a country can only have one language if it is to avoid coming apart at the seams.

The fear of bilingualism is probably most evident in the number of American states which have declared English their official language. Twenty-seven states have passed this kind of legislation. Often the vote is through the initiative process which asks voters to essentially choose between English and Spanish. English is often chosen by 2-1 margins.

A bill has been introduced in the U.S. Congress which would make English the official language of the country.

Does Spanish pose a threat to English or to the survival of the U.S. as a country?

The answer is, of course, in the negative. Although the Spanish-speaking population has increased and will continue to do so in the near future, the knowledge of the English language among these people is also rising.

Latinos learn English at about the same rate as other immigrants. A study by the State University of New York at Albany found that children of Latino immigrants show a preference for English instead of Spanish. By the third generation, Spanish is totally gone.

Unfortunately, that does not penetrate the popular mind, which sees the presence of services in Spanish as perfect proof that you can do everything in Spanish in the U.S. As a result, "conventional" wisdom goes, there is no need to learn English.

However, Latinos know very well that while some services are available in Spanish, English is the key to the door of opportunities and advancement through higher education. There is no college or university in the U.S. which enables you to become an engineer, a doctor, or a lawyer in Spanish.

This is a significant difference with Canada. In Quebec, for example, where 80% of the population speaks French, you can become a doctor, an engineer, or a lawyer in French.

In the U.S., English also dominates business. Although smart corporations keep in mind demographics and provide services in Spanish, English is the language of commerce.

In government, English also dominates. Although Spanish may be of some benefit, it would be virtually impossible to get elected to public office without knowing English.

While English is clearly the language to know, Spanish can also very beneficial. A study by researchers at the University of Florida found that Hispanic families speaking only Spanish had yearly incomes of less than $20,000 a year. Hispanic families speaking only English averaged yearly incomes of $32,000 while those speaking both English and Spanish had incomes of $50,376 yearly.

Is it time for you to learn Spanish?

La Ópera "The Flying Dutchman"

Tiene voces operísticas y efectos de cine

Por Íride Aparicio, Crítica Cultural

En su segunda premiere, la tarde del domingo 10 de abril y con un elenco diferente de cantantes, la Ópera San José presentó "The Flying Dutchman" usando proyecciones, lo que dio a la obra el carácter de las películas, basadas en óperas, que el productor Franco Zifferelli ha puesto en escena.

"Der Fliegende Holländer" (El Holandés Volador), el nombre que Richard Wagner, escritor de la música y el libreto, dio a su primera ópera, está basada en "Las memorias del Señor Von Schnabelewopks", una leyenda escrita por el poeta alemán Heinrich Heine. La ópera debutó en Hofoper, Dresden el 2 de enero de 1843.

La ópera relata la historia de un capitán holandés de marina, que cuando estaba navegando por El Cabo de la Buena Esperanza durante una noche borrascosa, naufragó. "Por haber dicho repetidas veces que nadie podía impedir que siguiera capitaneando su barco, el diablo aceptó sus palabras. El barco se hundió y el capitán pereció en la borrasca, pero su alma continuó navegando su barco maniobrado por una tripulación fantasma".

De acuerdo a la leyenda, un ángel se compadeció del sufrimiento del alma en pena del holandés, y para redimirla decretó que el capitán dejaría de navegar y encontraría reposo el día en que una joven que se enamorara de él y le prometiera amarlo hasta la muerte. Para facilitar el encuentro, el ángel le permitió al capitán un día, cada siete años, en que su alma pudiera abandonar el barco y buscar a alguien que le amara.

La ópera comienza en otra noche borrascosa, en la que navegando, otro barco capitaneado por Daland (Jesse Merlín) encuentra el barco del capitán holandés (Joseph Wright) y a su tripulación fantasmal.

Bajo la dirección de Olivia Stapp la escenografía de la producción utiliza proyecciones (Ethan Hoerneman). Las proyecciones dan a la ópera una experiencia visual, pero otras veces nos dan la impresión de estar presenciando un CD musical.

Durante la apertura de la ópera, las proyecciones del mar sirvieron su propósito. Sincronizadas con la música, las olas chocaron enfurecidas en los acordes, y cuando la melodía es dulce, se subyugan. El colorido del cielo en la pantalla, también representó visualmente la música.

Durante los acordes disonantes, el cielo se ve gris, encapotado e iluminado por relámpagos. Visualmente, la tempestad en el mar estuvo maravillosamente representada. En el segundo acto, sin embargo, poner imágenes proyectadas, no hubiera sido necesario. El coro de las hilanderas, con Mary (Michele Detwiler) y el aria de Senta (Deborah Berioli) hubieran sido suficientes para deleitar a la audiencia. En dicho acto, una pintura del holandés, en un cuadro hubiera sido mucho más dramático que la proyección enorme de su rostro con las ruedas de las ruecas girando.

Por otra parte, la proyección, en el tercer acto de los fantasmas, dejó de ser operística asimilándose más a una película de Hollywood. Al final, fue frustrante esperar ver una proyección de Senta (Berioli) y el holandés (Joseph Wright), elevándose por el aire, después de que su barco es tragado por el mar, y realizar que dicha proyección sólo existía en nuestra imaginación.

"The Flying Dutchman" tiene excelentes voces. Magnífica en calidad y tono es la voz de Senta (Berioli). La soprano tiene una técnica al cantar que le permite emitir tonos altos, claros y bien timbrados sin que se detecte su respiración.

En su papel de "La joven angelical" que decide sacrificar su vida para que el alma del holandés deje de penar, Berioli fue convincente. El único problema que tuvo la soprano esa tarde, fue que su alemán no se entiende. La mala pronunciación al cantar fue compartida esa tarde por Jesse Merlín en el papel de Daland, y por Erick (Etsel Skelton).

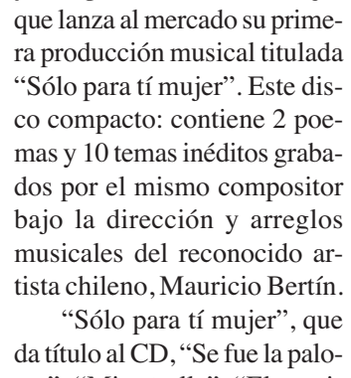
El único de los cantantes que vocalizó excelentemente su alemán fue Wright representando el "Capitán Holandés". Wright también representó su personaje con convicción, no sólo en la forma en que cantó sus arias si no en la forma en que se movió en el escenario.

Su actuación fue la mejor de la tarde. Los coros de la ópera, especialmente los masculinos, son excelentes.

Bajo la dirección de David Rohrbaugh la orquesta interpretó la música de Wagner con convicción.

La audiencia dio a "The Flying Dutchman", una ovación de pie.≤≥

El poeta William Trujeque lanza al mercado su primera producción musical



Portada del nuevo CD musical del poeta William Trujeque.

San José, CA — El poeta y compositor William Trujeque lanza al mercado su primera producción musical titulada "Sólo para tí mujer". Este disco compacto: contiene 2 poemas y 10 temas inéditos grabados por el mismo compositor bajo la dirección y arreglos musicales del reconocido artista chileno, Mauricio Bertín.

"Sólo para tí mujer", que da título al CD, "Se fue la paloma", "Mi estrella", "El maniquí" y "Vida", son algunos de los temas que descatan por su diversidad de ritmos y su mensaje de alto contenido social.

"Sólo para tí mujer", es un comunicado a la mujer para exaltar sus valores como tal y para mí ha sido una gran satisfacción el haber escrito todo esto para ellas", dijo el autor. "Mi fuente principal de inspiración como poeta y compositor es Dios y después la mujer".

Esta primera producción discográfica ya está a la venta en Mi Primer Pueblo, Librería de esta ciudad.

Asimismo, próximamente estará en el mercado el segundo CD de poemas de William Trujeque, "No volé por volar", en el que como siempre habla abiertamente sobre temas sociales fuertes como el alcoholismo y la mafia. Sobresalen los poemas "El hijo del sol" dedicado al legendario líder de los trabajadores agrícolas, César Chávez y "El Águila Real" que habla sobre el complot y asesinato del candidato presidencial mexicano, Luis Donaldo Colosio.

Su anterior producción, "El Rey Nació" (2003), tuvo gran aceptación en el público y fue realizado sobre temas navideños con el propósito de dar un mensaje de unión a la familia en fecha tan significativa.

Willian Trujeque, de origen mexicano, lleva más de 20 años escribiendo poemas y canciones dedicados a Dios, la mujer y la familia. Ha realizado presentaciones declamando sus poesías en diferentes escuelas y eventos públicos en el Área de la Bahía.≤≥

Campaña de truth asociada con la disminución sustancial en el Tabaquismo juvenil

Washington, D.C. — La campaña nacional de prevención contra el cigarrillo para la juventud truth de la American Legacy Foundation aceleró la disminución en las tasas de tabaquismo juvenil entre el 2000 y el 2002. El 22 por ciento de la reducción general en el tabaquismo juvenil durante dichos años se atribuye directamente a la campaña truth, de acuerdo a la nueva investigación publicada en la edición de marzo del American Journal of Public Health. El estudio, que es el primero en evaluar los resultados conductuales de la campaña truth, también descubrió que para el 2002 existían aproximadamente 300,000 menos fumadores juveniles como resultado de truth.

El estudio evaluó si existe una relación de dosis-respuesta entre el nivel de exposición a la campaña y los cambios en las tasas de tabaquismo juvenil durante los dos primeros años de la campaña, 2000-2002.

"Evidence of a Dose-Response Relationship between "truth" Antismoking Ads and Youth Smoking" (Evidencia de una Relación Dosis-respuesta Entre Anuncios Anti-tabaco "truth" y el Tabaquismo Juvenil) por Matthew Farrelly y colegas descubrió que los jóvenes expuestos a un mayor número de anuncios de truth tenían menor probabilidad de fumar.

El Dr. Farrelly observa que, "investigaciones previas muestran que los anuncios de truth atrajeron a los adolescentes y cambiaron su actitud acerca del cigarrillo. Ahora encontramos que estas reacciones positivas han dado como resultado tasas de tabaquismo inferiores, el resultado más importante para la salud pública".

Los datos de la encuesta Monitoring the Future (Monitoreando el futuro) se utilizaron para proporcionar una muestra representativa nacional de aproximadamente 50,000 estudiantes de los grados 8, 10 y 12, quienes fueron encuestados cada primavera desde 1997-2002. La encuesta Monitoring the Future está diseñada para vigilar el uso de alcohol, tabaco y drogas ilícitas en la juventud de los Estados Unidos y es conducida por el Institute for Social Research (Instituto para Investigación Social) de la Universidad de Michigan.

Todos los días, más de 4,000 jóvenes de entre 12 y 17 años prueban un cigarrillo por primera vez y el 80 por ciento de todos los fumadores prueban su primer cigarrillo antes de los 18 años. Entre un tercio y la mitad de los jóvenes que prueban un cigarrillo se convertirán en fumadores diarios. Desde 1997-2002, la prevalencia del hábito de fumar entre todos los grados combinados (8vo, 10mo y 12do) descendió del 28.0 por ciento al 18.0 por ciento, representando un 36 por ciento de la disminución general.

La campaña truth, lanzada en febrero del 2000, es la campaña de prevención contra el tabaquismo juvenil más grande y la única campaña nacional no dirigida por la industria tabacalera. La campaña puede verse en medios de comunicación populares entre los jóvenes tales como MTV, FOX, the WB, Fuse, Spike, G4 y BET.

La American Legacy Foundation, que brinda orientación estratégica y fondos para la campaña de truth, recibió en el 2003 lo que probablemente sea su pago final del Fondo Nacional para la Educación Pública (National Public Education Fund) establecido por el Acuerdo Extrajudicial Maestro. A pesar de su éxito, la campaña truth enfrenta ahora un desafío de financiamiento sin precedentes.

La importancia de dejar de fumar es fundamental para la salud y el bienestar de todos.

Las tasas de tabaquismo juvenil se encuentran en el piso histórico de los últimos 28 años. De hecho, con la tasa actual de disminución el tabaquismo juvenil podría alcanzar o exceder el objetivo de CDC de una tasa de disminución de un 16 por ciento para el 2010. truth es fundamental para contrarrestar los $12.5 mil millones que la industria tabacalera gastó en el 2002 para promocionar y comercializar sus productos sólo en los Estados Unidos.

Sin truth esta disminución podría llegar a su fin o incluso revertirse. Si truth muere no morirá sola.

La American Legacy Foundation está abocada a la construcción de un mundo donde los jóvenes rechacen el tabaco y cualquiera pueda dejar de fumar. Los programas nacionales de la fundación incluyen Circle of Friends, Great Start, una Iniciativa de Priority Populations, Streetheory y truth. La American Legacy Foundation fue creada como resultado del Acuerdo Extrajudicial Maestro de noviembre de 1998, celebrado entre fiscales generales de 46 estados, cinco territorios de los Estados Unidos y la industria tabacalera.

Para obtener ayuda para dejar de fumar, visite la página de Internet www.americanlegacy.org.≤≥

Con honores Albita parte a Nueva York

Texto y fotos por Angélica Willard

Con visible emoción y sin quebrar su inconfundible voz, con la transparencia que es ya una tradición Albita, recibe un merecido homenaje, antes de partir a una nueva tarea y agradece a su público que la ha seguido todo este tiempo.

"No tengo palabras para agradecer tan inmenso honor", dice acariciando las llaves de la ciudad, un símbolo de las puertas que se han abierto para ella en los Estados Unidos desde la Florida y para un público que ha escuchado y aplaudido sus originales canciones en el Mundo.

Parece ayer que llegó a deleitarnos con su guagancó desde Cuba y fue acogida en Miami, bajo el alero de Gloria y Emilio Estefan, cuando llegó a 'sonar' el ambiente con "Que manera de quererte", canción que marcó a nuestra comunidad a su llegada en los comienzos de 1992.

Años llenos de experiencias que la llevaron a crear su propio sello para triunfar con 'Angel's Dawn' que la hizo ganar un Grammy. Ahora, parte a otra afrenta, el teatro y con su voz llevará el ritmo que interpretó en la película "Mambo Kings" la 'Guarachera de Cuba' Celia Cruz, en el papel de Evalina Montoya, junto a un gran elenco.

"Parto con mucho ánimo, porque iré a hacer lo mío, que es interpretar. Los papeles de César y su hermano Néstor lo harán Isai Morales y Jaime Camil. El estreno será en agosto, en Broadway y cuando ya está en escena te diré más", dice.

Albita recibió las llaves de la ciudad que entregó el Comisionado Luis R. García, plasmó sus huellas y su firma en una placa de cemento para pasar a integrar el 'Walk of Stars' del The Jackie Gleason Theater, de la Ciudad de Miami Beach. Un homenaje que reconoce su contribución a las artes musicales y marca para la posteridad su figura con las palmas de sus pequeñas manos, que han hecho grande la música de Cuba.

Albita plasmando sus manos, se llena de alegría por tan grande homenaje y agradece a todo su público por su preferencia.

La cantante Albita se emociona tras recibir las llaves de la ciudad, un símbolo de las puertas que se han abierto para ella en los Estados Unidos.

La obra teatral que comienza a ensayarse en Broadway está inspirada en el libro de Oscar Hijuelos, nacido en Nueva York pero de origen cubano, "Los Reyes del Mambo tocan canciones de amor" y se estrenará en el 'Broadway Theater' de la Gran Manzana el próximo 18 de agosto.

"Haremos un pre-estreno en San Francisco, California", dice Albita Rodríguez. Comentando que fue contratada por Arnie Glishner (director original de la película en 1992) para actuar en los Reyes del Mambo, reviviendo el personaje de la recordada Celia. El director musical de la obra es Carlos Franzetti, mismo realizador de la música en 1992 y ganador de dos premios Grammy con las producciones Tango fatal y Retratos de Cuba.

Jaime Camil que actuará por primera vez en Broadway, hará el papel de Néstor Castillo, el cubano que llega a conquistar Nueva York, papel que protagonizó Antonio Banderas en 1992 y el actor puertorriqueño Esai Morales hará el papel de César Castillo, interpretado por Armand Assante en la versión fílmica.

Justina Machado que actuó en 'Six Feet Under' de origen puertorriqueño pero nacida en Chicago y el actor Billy Dee Williams completan el reparto estelar de la puesta en escena de la actual obra teatro-musical, junto a Albita.≤≥

El Comisionado Luis R. García, entregó a Albita las llaves de la ciudad, plasmó sus huellas y su firma en una placa de cemento para pasar a integrar el 'Walk of Stars' del The Jackie Gleason Theater, de la Ciudad de Miami Beach.

Rincón Financiero:

¿Cómo vender más?

Por Michael Periu, Jr.

Ésta es la pregunta número uno que debe hacer un empresario. Como también hay que seguir creciendo buscando nuevos clientes a quien venderle. ¿Cómo conseguir, entonces, a sus nuevos potenciales clientes? Aquí sugiero unas cuantas opciones:

Periódicos: Una de las mejores fuentes de información sobre su comunidad y por ende, sobre potenciales clientes nuevos es el periódico local (como éste). En él encontrará: artículos sobre nuevas empresas o negocios en expansión; páginas comerciales para anunciar promociones laborales; y nuevos avisos publicitarios o anuncios relacionados con los negocios.

Grupos de empresarios: Existen muchos grupos locales de empresarios, tales como cámaras de comercio, organizaciones comerciales que reúnen a mujeres o a hispanos y mucho más. Por lo general, estos grupos dedican cierta cantidad de tiempo de sus reuniones para que los miembros establezcan contactos. La mayoría de estas organizaciones publican (en forma impresa o en Internet) una guía de sus miembros, y usted puede utilizar dicho listado para obtener nuevos clientes.

Si usted quiere conseguir nuevos clientes al momento de vender una de las mejores fuentes de información sobre su comunidad entre otras, es el periódico local, que le ayudará en sus negocios. Foto EFE

Asociaciones comerciales: Estas entidades son similares a los grupos de empresarios, pero concentran a los miembros de una industria en particular. En la mayoría de las grandes ciudades, usted encontrará filiales de muchas asociaciones comerciales nacionales. No siempre piense que los que están en su mismo sector son sólo competidores, ya que también pueden convertirse en una buena fuente de información y asesoramiento. Otra posibilidad es ser miembro de una asociación que agrupa a las empresas de una determinada industria a las que usted ofrece sus servicios.

Registros públicos: Muchas organizaciones comerciales compilan y venden listas de registros públicos de los que se puede obtener información útil para las ventas. Existen listas de nuevas licencias comerciales o nuevas compañías, permisos para construir, licencias de matrimonio y certificados de nacimiento. Puede usar estas listas como un guía para contactar a nuevos empresas y personas recién llegadas e intentar conseguirlos como cliente.

Es muy importante ser creativo ya que ¡nunca se sabe de donde vendrá su próximo cliente grande!

Queen of Sheba - Supreme Ethiopian Cuisine

Are you looking for a different and satisfying dining experience where you can enjoy the tradition and custom of thousands of years of culinary development? Then you must treat yourself to the excellent variety of Ethiopian fare at the Queen of Sheba restaurant, located on The Alameda near the 880 freeway. The restaurant, located in the old San Jose Coffee Shop, was opened in August, 2003, by the Okbato family. They emigrated from Ethiopia in 1991, where they had previous experience in the family's restaurant.

Ethiopian food is made with all natural ingredients, slow cooked in spices and herbs to produce unique and complex flavors. In addition, the butter used in the cooking is purified using herbs and spices to produce a highly aromatic flavor, yet with an extremely healthy base. The cuisine is unique in how it is designed. At the center of nearly all the dishes are two main ingredients: Berbere – which is what gives it the "hotness", and "Nitir Kibbe" which gives the dishes their rich texture and flavor.

The menu dishes offered include beef, lamb, chicken and vegetarian plates, all reasonably priced in the $7 to $11 range. You should try some of the house specials such as the Yebere Tibs (beef) or Yebeg Tibs (lamb). They are made with tender chopped beef or lamb sautéed to perfection with onion, green pepper, seasoned butter and herbs. Doro Wot is an excellent chicken stew simmered in berbere sauce until tender and seasoned with butter, garlic and onions. A good, healthy vegetarian dish is the Vegetarian Platter, which is made with a combination of lentils, collard greens, split peas, carrots, potatoes and cabbage.

The Queen of Sheba also has a banquet room, which can be used for special events and meetings such as quinceaneras, birthdays, pre-wedding dinners or company meetings. Upstairs they have a sports bar lounge for relaxing at the end of a busy day. You should try some of the Ethiopian beers and wines. Harrar is a nice light beer with an easy pleasant taste.

Treat yourself to a unique dining experience at the Queen of Sheba restaurant located at 1860 The Alameda in San Jose.

Pastel de Bodas Mexicano

Ingredientes

* 4 1/2 tazas de harina de trigo para todo uso
* 2 1/4 cucharaditas de bicarbonato de sodio
* 1 1/4 cucharaditas de canela molida
* 1 cucharadita de sal
* 3 barras más 3 cucharadas de mantequilla sin sal
* 1 1/3 taza pasta chocolatosa de avellanas Nutella
* 3 1/3 tazas azúcar granulada
* 5 huevos
* 1 1/4 taza crema de leche
* 3 cucharadas de extracto de vainilla

Preparación

Lo siguiente son las instrucciones para preparar la primera capa del Pastel de Bodas Mexicano.

1. Precalentar el horno a 325 grados.

2. Engrasar 3 moldes para pastel de 12 pulgadas. Cubrir el fondo de cada molde con papel pergamino o vegetal. Espolvorear levemente el papel pergamino o vegetal con harina.

3. Tamizar la harina, el bicarbonato de sodio, la canela y la sal en un tazón y reservar. Fundir la mantequilla en una cacerola de dos cuartos de galón sobre fuego medio. Agregar la Nutella, batiendo hasta que la preparación esté lisa y sin grumos. Retirar del fuego. Agregar el azúcar, los huevos, la crema de leche y la vainilla y continuar batiendo. Tamizar los ingredientes secos sobre la mezcla de Nutella y batir todos los ingredientes hasta que están integrados.

4. Dividir la masa en forma pareja en 3 moldes. Hornear por una hora y 15 minutos o hasta que al insertar un palillo en el centro éste salga con unas pocas migas. Desprender los pasteles de los bordes con la ayuda de un cuchillo. Desmoldar los pasteles sobre rejillas y retirar el papel pergamino o vegetal. Volver a invertir los pasteles sobre 3 discos de cartón de 13 pulgadas. Dejar enfriar por completo y envolver herméticamente en papel plástico hasta el momento de usar.

Para el relleno y el glaseado:

Los siguientes ingredientes para el relleno y el glaseado son suficientes para las tres capas del pastel. Reducir las cantidades de los ingredientes de acuerdo al tamaño del pastel que vaya a hacer.

* 12 barras (48 onzas) mantequilla sin sal, blanda
* 32 onzas de queso crema, blando
* 4 tazas de azúcar de pastelería, tamizada
* 2 tazas de pasta chocolatosa de avellanas Nutella
* 3 cucharadas de canela molida
* 6 cucharadas de chile en polvo

Mezclar la mantequilla y el queso crema en una batidora a velocidad media-alta durante 5 minutos. Raspar los bordes para ayudar a mezclar toda la preparación. Agregar el azúcar de pastelería y batir hasta que la preparación esté lisa y cremosa. Retirar 4 tazas de glaseado y reservar. Para realizar el relleno de Nutella, utilizar el resto de glaseado que quede en la batidora y agregar la Nutella, la canela y el chile en polvo. Batir hasta integrar todos los ingredientes.

Para preparar el Pastel de Bodas Mexicano de tres capas como se figura en la foto, por favor de mandar un email a koleson@webershandwick.com para recibir la receta completa.≤≥

Dayanara Torres no tuvo nada que ver con ruptura Bisbal-Chenoa

Por Luis A. Torres

Miami (EFE) — La ex Miss Universo Dayanara Torres negó ser "la otra mujer" que causó la ruptura de la relación entre el cantante español David Bisbal y su novia, la también cantante Chenoa

"Nunca intervendría entre alguien que tiene una relación", dijo la puertorriqueña Torres, que en carne propia ha sufrido lo suyo con las infidelidades de Marc Anthony, quien terminó en los brazos de Jennifer López.

Bisbal y Torres se conocieron y actuaron juntos cuando esta última fue llamada a sustituir a la actriz mexicana Edith González como bailadora en una presentación del cantante español en la gala de "El Premio Lo Nuestro" en Miami en febrero pasado.

En Internet también ha circulado otro rumor sin pies ni cabeza, que fue Paulina Rubio la culpable del final de la relación de los dos ex concursantes de "Operación Triunfo" que duró tres años, a pesar que se veían poco por las agendas profesionales de cada uno.

Hay dos hipótesis que circulaban como probables, aunque ninguna está confirmada.

Una de ellas tiene nombre de mujer, Sussi. Es una de las dos bailarinas que acompañan siempre a Bisbal en sus giras y se le puede ver en el vídeo de "Bulería".

Lo que apoyan esta tesis agregan que estar junto a Sussi diariamente, tanto en los escenarios como en los frecuentes viajes por América Latina, ha hecho que brote el inevitable romance entre los dos.

Otra versión apunta a que Bisbal, furioso y humillado, decidió romper la relación cuando se enteró, estando de viaje en Caracas (Venezuela), que la argentina Chenoa le había sido infiel, presuntamente con un productor musical.

Sergio Andrade, las moscas merodean su salida de prisión

El productor mexicano Sergio Andrade está a punto de salir de una cárcel de Chihuahua y tan pronto encuentre quien le pague una fianza equivalente a unos 94,000 dólares.

Pero también le esperan, como sucedió con Gloria Trevi, los productores ansiosos por hacer negocios con un personaje que a pesar de haber sido encontrada culpable de violación y corrupción de menores, "vende" por el morbo de este caso.

Muchas de las víctimas en este escandaloso caso, que ya dura casi cinco años de interés mediático, se han apresurado a opinar que "no les importa" lo que le pase a Andrade, pero algunas de éstas hubieran preferido que se hubiera podrido en la cárcel.

Andrade, el habilidoso productor que lanzó a la fama a Trevi, fue encontrado culpable de rapto, violación agravada y corrupción de menores y sentenciado a siete años de cárcel.

El productor Rodrigo Vidal quiere filmar "Mi Verdad", en tres capítulos para la televisión, sobre la vida de Andrade, al estilo de la que el también productor Juan Osorio grabó sobre su tormentoso matrimonio y divorcio de la bailarina cubana Niurka Campos.

Aunque las madres ya no le llevarán a Andrade a sus hijas menores de edad "para hacerlas cantantes", el productor tiene en mente varios proyectos, incluso publicar un libro autobiográfico donde podría implicar que Trevi sabía lo que hacía con las ex coristas de su grupo musical.≤≥

The new 2005 Magnum RT

From the tilt/telescoping steering wheel to the available power adjustable driver's pedals, Magnum's interior is designed to increase driver comfort.

The available eight-way power driver and six-way front-passenger seats provide safe and comfortable seating, while the available heated seats warm you on cold days and can help soothe sore muscles.

Magnum's command-of-the-road seating puts you in a position of authority, giving you a better view of the challenges ahead. The front seats are positioned higher than other vehicles' by about 2 inches so you can look over the road instead of down it. The rear seats are positioned slightly higher than the front row so your rear-seat passengers are able to look out the front window too. And because you should be comfortable while you're driving, the standard manual lumbar adjust provides individual back support for both the driver and the front passenger.

From the black-on-white gauge display in the daytime to the comfortable blue-green glow of the digits in the evening, the engaging gauges on Magnum are easy to read any time of the day or night.

The available electronic vehicle information center (EVIC) is designed to provide valuable information to get you down the road. The steering wheel—mounted controls will let you navigate through such features as the UConnect hands-free communication system screen, the navigation system's turn-by-turn route guidance, trip computer, outside temperature, compass, and audio settings.

The available UConnect hands-free communication system is cool and convenient. All you need to do is set up any Bluetooth hands-free wireless phone in Magnum, and the UConnect system automatically lowers the audio system volume and broadcasts the incoming call. A microphone in the rearview mirror takes your voice commands while you keep your hands on the wheel and your eyes on the road.≤≥

Will the A's move to San Jose?

Team Under New Ownership

By Pete Campbell

Last month, the sale of the Oakland A's Baseball team to Lewis Wolff and his partners was completed and approved by Major League Baseball. Now that the deal has been "signed, sealed, and delivered," the new owners can begin the serious work of finding a new location to build a new ballpark. Could it be in San Jose?

Last month, before a spring training game, the mayor and County Assessor Larry Stone held a press conference to promote San Jose as a major league city in search of a major league team. But the city's fitness to carry a team is not really the issue. The San Francisco Giants hold territorial rights to the Santa Clara County and the Commissioner of Baseball has repeatedly expressed his unwillingness to even consider the issue.

Even the principal new owner of the team is on record as saying that he intends to keep the team in Oakland. After the Oakland County Coliseum Board voted to approve the transfer of ownership, NBC 11 News reported, "Wolff says he has no plans to leave Oakland."

The fact is, if an attractive deal could be put together somewhere in the Oakland area, the baseball owners would unlikely vote to undermine and reverse their own established rules of territorial rights.

In a letter published by the Mercury News, Maury Brown, co-chair of the SABR Business of Baseball committee wrote, "This issue of San Jose and the movement of the A's south is far larger than just Oakland, San Jose and the Giants. Breaking of the territorial rules impacts all the other owners as well... Jurisdictions would then be wide open by the precendent set of breaking up the territorial rights of other franchises."

As far as Oakland is concerned, plans for a new stadium seem centered on the idea of building a slick-new ballpark in the Coliseum parking lot.

Longtime San Francisco Chronicle sportswriter Glenn Dickey reported that, "A group of prominent businessmen and professional people has resurfaced to help push forward the project for a new baseball-only park for the A's."

In terms of financing the project, some of the ideas outlined in the Dickey article include entitlements from developers who would be allowed to build new housing around the new stadium and tax revenues generated from the increased retail activity that would occur "around a new park and the BART stop... if housing is added to the mix."

If plans go forward to build a new "village" of housing and retail around a new ballpark that is adjacent to an existing BART stop, it's hard to imagine that the baseball owners would give any other place even a second thought.≤≥

¿Es más importante el derecho a las ganancias de las compañías tabacaleras, que nuestro derecho a vivir?

La industria tabacalera dice que fumar es una decisión personal. Pero cuando nos morimos de cáncer y ataques al corazón por usar sus productos adictivos, ellos se desentienden.

La industria tabacalera vende productos que le causan la muerte a 400,000 personas al año. Todo el mundo tiene derecho a las ganancias, pero no a costa de la vida de los demás.

No sea una víctima más de la industria del tabaco.

Check It Out! San Jose Branch Libraries might...

The library commission's letter goes even further. "Considering that the library system is likely to reduce days of service, adding Sunday to the schedule at branches is not a viable option under any of the budget scenarios."

After reading portions of the San Jose library commission's letter, one might wonder if the members of the commission and the members of the Gonzales administration are talking about the same city! The members of the San Jose library commission appear to be quite concerned about the city's ability to fund library operations at the current level of service, let alone an expanded one.

"How ironic is it that we are bringing four state-of-the-art branches online in 2005, only to have to dramatically curtail services, and possibly even shut the doors?"

As expected, the library commission does not want service levels to be reduced, but if they have to be, the commission believes that the cuts should be made equitably.

"The commission ultimately decided to recommend a scenario that would have the least effect on quality of library service... we feel that cutting all branches equally is the most equitable approach... everyone suffers at the same level."

At this point, no one really knows how the city's budget cuts will affect the level of library service in the city of San Jose. Keeping the libraries open on Sunday might be popular, but it might not prove to be practical.≤≥ todos los que vivimos en Estados Unidos debemos ser tratados igual bajo la Ley y que no se deben proponer o aprobar leyes que discriminen a la gente basadas en su estatus legal",nos dice Sanjeev Bery, de ACLU (American Civil Liberties Union). "Es muy importante que la gente les diga a sus representantes que se opongan al 'Real ID Act'".

"Para la comunidad musulmana en este país desde el 11 de septiembre las libertades civiles han sufrido un retroceso", afirma con dolor Samina Faheem Sundas, de la Organización American Muslim Voice. "Así que estamos aquí para decirles a nuestros conciudadanos que esta medida va a separar aún más a nuestras familias, y queremos asegurarnos que eso no suceda. Muchas personas no entienden bien qué es el perder las libertades civiles. Pero a nosotros nos han convertido en el blanco de persecusiones. Si vamos al aeropuerto incluso niños de tres años son cateados en busca de armas y eso no es posible. No podemos permitir que esto suceda".

"Los inmigrantes, sin importar de dónde venimos somos una comunidad que trabaja duro, pero si no podemos tener licencias de conducir ¿cómo vamos a ir a nuestros trabajos o a llevar a nuestros hijos a la escuela? Al final si esta medida pasa, todos en general, sin importar nuestro color de piel vamos a pagar las consecuencias".

Estudian reanudación de programa de...

República Mexicana, como Guadalajara y la Ciudad de México.

El objetivo del polémico programa, que formó parte del operativo Control de la Frontera de Arizona (ABC), que entró en vigor el pasado mes de julio, era salvar las vidas de los indocumentados al darles la oportunidad de regresar a sus pueblos de origen.

De acuerdo con la página de Internet del Departamento de Seguridad Nacional (DHS), el gobierno federal busca a un contratista independiente que opere una serie de vuelos de hasta 300 personas, diariamente desde Tucson a México.

El anuncio solicita a una compañía, que también se encargue de coordinar servicios de seguridad durante los vuelos, asistencia médica y autobuses para transportar a los inmigrantes deportados una vez lleguen a tierras mexicanas.

El programa de repatriación voluntaria estuvo rodeado de gran controversia desde sus inicios debido a que inmigrantes indocumentados se quejaron a su llegada a México de haber sido "obligados" a participar en el programa.

En Estados Unidos el programa fue también fuertemente criticado por congresistas federales debido al alto costo que tuvo (más de 15 millones de dólares) durante los dos meses que estuvo en vigor.

Actualmente, cuando un inmigrante mexicano es arrestado por la Patrulla Fronteriza, generalmente es deportado unas horas después en la garita de entrada más cercana a su detención, generalmente en Nogales o Douglas (Arizona).

Esto trae como consecuencia que miles de inmigrantes indocumentados deambulen por las calles de las ciudades fronterizas, en espera de una mejor oportunidad para intentar cruzar la frontera.

Otros, que han gastado todos sus ahorros no pueden comprar un boleto de regreso a sus pueblos.

A pesar de los esfuerzos de ambos gobiernos, el año pasado 171 inmigrantes indocumentados murieron en el desierto de Arizona. Mientras que las muertes en accidentes automovilísticos aumentó 50 por ciento.

Activistas y defensores de los inmigrantes aseguran que el gobierno federal y su política de militarización de la frontera es la principal causa en el incremento de muertes de inmigrantes indocumentados.

Decididos a frenar el flujo migratorio por el desierto de Arizona, el mes pasado el DHS anunció la segunda fase del Programa Control de la Frontera de Arizona (ABCI), que contará con 500 agentes fronterizos adicionales, con lo que se eleva a 3,000 el número de oficiales en la zona.

El gobierno federal también incremento el número de helicópteros y avionetas utilizadas para vigilar la región fronteriza.≤≥

mia".

Ambos ataques fueron perpetrados a primera hora de la mañana, de forma casi simultánea, en una de las principales avenidas del lujoso barrio de Al Yaderiya, cerca de la denominada "zona verde", un área amurallada de la capital tras la que se parapetan las embajadas de EE.UU. y el Reino Unido.

La masacre pudo ser incluso mayor, ya que según fuentes policiales, un tercer coche bomba fue detectado a tiempo en la zona y desactivado antes de que pudiera ser detonado.

El texto del grupo de Al-Zarqaui, cuya autenticidad aún no ha sido verificada, incluía, asimismo, una advertencia a Estados Unidos.

El secretario de Defensa norteamericano, Donald Rumsfeld, y el vicesecretario de Estado, Robert Zoellick, visitaron Bagdad, donde alabaron los "progresos" de la transición democrática en Irak.

La organización de Zarqaui ha asumido la autoría de numerosos ataques terroristas con coches bomba en diferentes áreas de Irak, así como del secuestro y posterior asesinato de varios civiles iraquíes y extranjeros.

Sin embargo, desde que el pasado 30 de enero se celebraron las primeras elecciones de la transición en Irak, la capital había quedado casi al margen de la violencia diaria que aún sacude al resto del país, en especial a la zona noroeste, corazón de la insurgencia.

Los rebeldes han atacado con regularidad puestos de control de la Policía iraquí, convoyes militares y acuartelamientos de las fuerzas estadounidenses en la convulsa provincia de Al-Anbar, que se extiende desde el oeste de Bagdad hacia las fronteras con Jordania y Siria.

En esta provincia está ubicada la ciudad rebelde de Ramadi, escenario casi a diario de combates.

La operatividad de la insurgencia se extiende por el norte hasta la Ciudad de Mosul, y por el sur a la de Hilla, escenario de un atentado suicida que segó la vida de al menos cuatro policías y causó heridas a otras seis personas.

El ataque ocurrió en la vecina localidad de Al-Mahawil, a unos diez kilómetros al norte del casco urbano, y fue obra de un kamikaze que hizo estallar frente a un puesto de la Policía local los explosivos que llevaba adosados al cuerpo, explicaron fuentes oficiales.

Al norte de Bagdad, en la localidad de Tikrit, un coche bomba estallado cerca de un acuartelamiento militar estadounidense mató a cuatro personas e hirió a otras nueve, informaron fuentes policiales.

Un soldado norteamericano y dos policías iraquíes resultaron heridos en la misma acción, explicó, por su parte, el mando militar de EE.UU.

En la vecina localidad de Baquba, ubicada como Tikrit en el denominado "triángulo suní", pulmón de la insurgencia en Irak, dos militares estadounidenses resultaron heridos al hacer explosión una bomba de fabricación artesanal al paso de un convoy, informaron fuentes policiales.≤≥
